PRESS RELEASE

Axolot Solutions has signed a trial agreement with a customer operating a harbor

A trial agreement has been signed with a customer conducting harbor activities, including regular ferry traffic.

The trials will be carried out in April, with the main purpose of removing zinc, but also other metal ions and nutrients from the water. New legislation sets requirements for harbor owners to take care of and clean black and grey water from the ships.

Given a high content of zinc - coming from sacrificing anodes in the ship tanks, protecting the tanks from corrosion – the black and grey water can usually not be sent to municipal treatment plants, since the metal content in the sewer sludge in this case risks being too high to be spread on the fields.

- An increased responsibility for the environment within the maritime industry is most welcome. Our technology is well positioned to offer solutions to these specific challenges, says Martin Ragnar, President and CEO of Axolot Solutions.
